Product demo

Nate Walkingshaw, president of Paramed Systems of Salt Lake City, demonstrates a gurneylike device used for safely transporting patients down stairs during a conference Tuesday at Shasta Regional Medical Center in Redding. The injured volunteer is Chris Lawley of Red Bluff, a nurse at St. Elizabeth Hospital. About 40 people from various north state hospitals, clinics and public health agencies attended the disaster-preparation fair at the hospital. They were able to view and test equipment designed for responding to natural and man-made disaster situations, including personal protective gear and a decontamination tent.
